DETAILED ACTION

1. This application filed 3/28/2007 is a national stage filing of PCT/FR04/50605 filed 11/19/2004, which claims benefit of 0350886 filed in France.

Original claims 1-34 filed 5/19/2006 are under examination.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 4-32 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because they are multiple dependent claims; multiple dependent claim cannot depend from another multiple dependent claim. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Correction before examination is suggested.

Election/Restrictions

3. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-23, 28, drawn to a composition comprising a polymer formulation and an interferon for the delivery of interferon.

Group II, claim(s) 24-26, drawn to a composition comprising a polymer formulation, an interferon for the delivery of interferon and an additional active agent.

Group III, claim(s) 27, 30-34, drawn to a process of preparation of the compositions.

The inventions listed as Groups I-III do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: at the time of filing the use of lipid formulations for the delivery of interferon as set forth in claim 1. See the PCT search report citing and explaining the teachings of X ref FR 2 786 98 A (of record).

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

If any group is elected, a specific species of polymer and interferon must be elected, if group II is elected a specific species of polymer, interferon and additional agent (claim 24 for example) must be elected. If group III is elected, one specific combination of species of either I or II must be elected. Note, the election of one species of polymer requires that all the specific variables set forth in the various formulas be set forth such that one completely defined species of polymer be elected.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Currently, all claims are generic because no claim sets forth a specific combination encompassing one species.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: as noted above for the election of groups, lipid formulations for the delivery of interferon were known at the time of filing. Different lipid structures providing different solubility properties and delivery properties were also well known and used in a variety of formulations. Further, for treatment, providing formulations of a combination of interferon with other agents for the treatment of specific diseases are also well known.

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed to a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.
